

Name _____

Annotation Exercise

It may even be more brutal these days, with an excess of testing and the watchfulness not only of parents and teachers but the big eyeball of the system itself, its vision intensified by video surveillance cameras, Facebook and the omnipresent Web, which tracks everyone down, puts every idiotic statement in the virtual concrete of electrons – forever.

(from Jay Parini's "Room for Debate" essay, "Feeling 'Gamed'")

This sentence contains 58 words. Sum up its main point in ten words or fewer:

---

---